Research Exercise

Library Cards

In preparation for my doctoral research journey, I have obtained library access to the Greenville County Public Library and the Anderson University Library (where I currently serve as an adjunct instructor.)

Research Librarians

As a part of establishing connections with both library partners, I have sourced the relevant research librarians with whom I will work. At the Greenville County Library, I connected with staff in the South Carolina Room, where I will be able to set-up meetings with various resource librarians and find numerous materials (some of which are incredibly rare!) At the Anderson University library, I have an established relationship with librarian Whitney Rice, who oversees social science research databases at the institution.
